Memorandum

SUBJECT: Review of North Dakota and South Dakota Requests for Emergency Exemption of Fluroxypyr for Use in Wheat and Barley to Control Kochia (98-ND-02/3, 98-SD-06))

FROM: George W. Keitt, Jr., PhD
Herbicide and Insecticide Branch
Biological and Economic Analysis Division (7503C)

TO: Andy Ertman/Robert Forrest
Minor Use, Inerts and Emergency Response Branch
Registration Division (7505C)

I have reviewed the subject requests and conclude that the situation is no different from last year, namely that the non-routine aspect is the availability of a new chemical to solve an old problem. No evidence was submitted to demonstrate an out-of-the ordinary level of this pest. Therefore I find no justification for an emergency exemption...For this reason, no economic analysis is required.
