ETHION .67 OIL

INSECTICIDE - MITICIDE

DIRECTIONS FOR USE

Unless otherwise noted, begin applications when adult borers first appear. If adult borers, foliage and branches are necessary for good control, it is often necessary to be used with the oil in the same sort of tank mixtures as should be used in the water first, then the oil should be added last (the oil is being稀釋). Labels for each material should be referred to determine application rates and the amount of dilution if this spray is to be mixed with other materials. Insecticides or miticides should be applied in the same tank as the water first, then the oil should be added last (the oil is being稀釋). If the oil is to be mixed with other materials, spray tank with the application rate of the insecticide or miticide in this order: insecticide, then water, then oil, then oil, then water, then oil.
