National Air Quality Conference

Sheraton Austin Hotel at the Capitol

Austin, Texas

September 11-13, 2017

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) invites you to attend this year's National Air Quality Conference, which will be held Monday - Wednesday, September 11-13, 2017, in Austin, Texas. Air quality professionals from federal, state, local and tribal air pollution organizations, metropolitan and regional planning organizations, environmental and research organizations, and industry representatives are encouraged to participate to learn the latest information on air quality forecasting and mapping, air quality and your health, and innovative outreach programs.

The general program will begin on Monday afternoon with an opening plenary session, followed by focused breakout sessions, exhibits, and a poster session. The breakout sessions will include two tracks: air quality forecasting and mapping, and communicating air quality. Wednesday afternoon will feature a closing plenary session. Come share your experiences and knowledge, network with colleagues, and learn about new and innovative projects at our exhibits and poster area.

MEETING SITE AND HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS

The conference will be held at the Sheraton Austin Hotel at the Capitol, which is located in downtown Austin. The hotel conference rate is $141 per night for either a single or double occupancy room plus applicable taxes. Please make your reservations online or if you call, reference "EPA National Air Quality Conference room block" to receive the discounted group rate. All reservations must be made by Sunday, August 20, 2017. After this date, reservations are subject to space and rate availability. The hotel is offering a limited number of rooms at the group rate 3 days before the conference for anyone looking to extend their trip to Austin. Call the Sheraton's reservation line at 1-888-627-8349 for details and pre-conference reservations. Space is limited and not guaranteed, so reserve your room quickly.
