Spray Drift Data Requirements

The Malathion Reregistration Task Force has provided the Agency with a notice stating that it will participate in the Spray Drift Task Force as presented in the PR Notice 90-3.

The EPA accepts this notice of participation.

It should be noted that for all spray drift data requirements, there is no waiver of the requirements with the participation in the Spray Drift Task Force. All spray drift data requirements will remain in effect as requested. Time extensions for submission of the data must be requested on a product by product basis. (A company or task force may request several product extensions at one time, but each product must be individually identified.) If the EPA feels that certain spray drift information must be made available to the EPA before the final Spray Drift Task Force report(s), those data requirements [for a particular chemical(s)] will be identified for submission with an accelerated time schedule.

RE: Malathion Reregistration Standard
Droplet Size Spectrum (Guideline
No. 201-1) and Drift Field
Evaluation (Guideline No. 202-1)

Dear Ms. Rossi:

In response to a telephone call from Joanne Edwards on April 11, 1991, the Malathion Reregistration Task Force (No. 57875) is a full participant of the Spray Drift Task Force as presented in the PR Notice 90-3. This was stated as such in a letter from Dr. Robert Linkfield to you on September 6, 1990.

Therefore, the Malathion Reregistration Task Force is requesting a deadline extension for the above named requirements. The Spray Drift Task Force expects to begin field studies in the summer of 1992, but the Malathion Reregistration Task Force cannot put an exact date on the extension request. If you have any questions, please let me know.

Very truly yours,

Michele A. Bassler
