 Regular, effective cleaning and sanitizing of equipment, utensils, and work or dining surfaces minimize the probability of contaminating food during preparation, storage or service, and the transmission of disease organisms to consumers and employees. Effective cleaning will remove soil and prevent the accumulation of food residues which may decompose or support the rapid development of food poisoning organisms or toxins. Application of effective sanitizing procedures destroys those disease organisms which may be present on equipment and utensils after cleaning, and prevents the transfer of such organisms to consumers or employees, either directly through tableware such as glasses, cups and flatware or indirectly through the food.

To prevent cross-contamination, kitchenware and food-contact surfaces of equipment shall be washed, rinsed, and sanitized after each use and following any interruption of operation during which time contamination may have occurred.

Where equipment and utensils are used for the preparation of foods on a continuous or production-line basis, utensils and the food-contact surfaces of equipment shall be washed, rinsed, and sanitized at intervals throughout the day on a schedule based on food temperature, type of food, and amount of food particle accumulation.
