Gordon's FORE-PLUS Lawn Fungicide is a unique and different fungicide combination of Fore plus Karathane. It provides excellent fungus control including Powdery Mildew without damage to turf and certain ornamentals.

WHEN TO APPLY: Diseases of turf grasses and ornamentals can destroy foliage very quickly when weather conditions are favorable to the fungus growth. Once diseases have become established the higher rate of fungicide must be used with more frequent (every 7 days) applications to control them. For both turf and ornamentals, follow a regular spray program (10-14 days) starting in midspring and continued through the season as needed.

For Fusarium snow mold on turf, make an application just prior to the first snow or at the beginning of cold, wet winter weather. In areas where repeated and severe disease development occurs, a second application should be made at one of the mid-winter thaws and a third after the final spring thaw.

SPRAYING TIPS: Clean your sprayer. Rusty sprayers clog up. For best disease control, it is imperative that applications start in the spring when warm and humid weather conditions are favorable for fungus growth. Before treating turf areas, the sq. ft. in area to be treated should be measured to assure proper application.

DILUTION TABLES

Hose-End Sprayers—Turf

Use a lawn type sprayer. Measure required amount of FORE-PLUS into jar and add just enough water to wet the powder. Stir until all powder is wet and smooth. Add water until concentrate in jar is up to the required level. Shake to agitate periodically while spraying.

Hose-End Sprayers — Ornamentals

Use multi-purpose hose-end sprayer with 2 to 6 gallon capacity. Use 1½ to 2 tablespoons per gallon. For example, to make 3 gallons of spray, place 4½ tablespoons FORE-PLUS in the sprayer bottle. Be sure to thoroughly wet the powder and then add water to the 3 gallon mark. Wet foliage until a few drops begin to run-off.
