DIRECTIONS

Thermal fog machines produce extremely fine spray particles which hang over the ground, penetrating the areas occupied by adult mosquitoes. For outdoor area control of mosquitoes and similar small flying insects, envelop the area to be treated in a fine fog. Avoid over-spraying of ornamental and native plants to minimize the phytotoxicity of the oil carrier. Follow the sprayer manufacturer's directions for an even penetration of fog at a rate not to exceed 2 gallons/acre. For best results thermal fogging should be done during the cooler hours of the night or early morning when the wind is not in excess of 3 miles/hour. Timing should coincide with the greatest mosquito activity. Repeat as Necessary.
