DIRECTIONS FOR USE

Liberal apply powder on cats and dogs by means of a small hand duster, such as the Getz gun or bulbular hand duster. The powder should be applied on the ears, around the neck, over the back, around the anus, over and under the tail, over the genitals, on the abdomen and over the legs, with particular attention to placement between the toes of the animals. For comfort's sake, the powder should be kept away from an animal's face when dusting his body.

If a dust gun is not available, small quantities of the powder may be placed in the palms of the hands and worked into the fur of the animals with the hands. For the longer haired dogs—such as Collies and Cocker Spaniels—repeat treatments as necessary, particularly if the hair is matted down with dirt. When the matting is too severe the dog's hair should be clipped and then the powder applied.

The animal should be placed on a leash for several hours following treatment to allow time for all fleas to come in contact with the powder before it is partially removed through the normal activities of the animal. The powder should be left on the animal for as long as possible — at least a week — before bathing him.

Apply "THE BUG MAN"® FLEA & TICK POWDER at the rate of 2 ounces per 100 square feet of space in animals sleeping quarters, kennel or run.
