BTPD Species Status	Augustine et. al., 2006; Presnall, 1962; Trudeau et. al., 2004	According the USFWS, the BTPD is a resolved species and no longer under consideration to be a listed species (74 FR 63343)
Characterization of species included in assessment	Knowles, 1998; Manzano-Fischer et. al., 2006; Oldemeyer et. al., 1993; Sharps and Uresk, 1990	These studies indicate that the northern Aplomado falcon and black footed ferret co-occur with BTPDs and contribute to a line of evidence suggesting an LAA call.
Characterization of species not included in assessment	Agnew et. al., 1986; Berry and Bock, 1998 Ceballos et. al., 1999; Clark et. al., 1982; Desmond et. al., 2000; Detling, 1998; Detling and Whicker, 1987; Fagerstone and Ramey, 1996; Kotliar et. al., 1999; Kretzer and Cully, 2001; Plumpton and Andersen, 1997; Plumpton and Andersen, 2004; Uresk and Sharps, 1986; Werthner, 1997	These studies characterize species occurring in BTPD habitat but do not include species relevant to this assessment.
Not relevant to assessment endpoints	Coppock et. al., 1983; Coppock et. al., 1983; Cully et. al., 2000; Cully and Williams, 2001; Kotliar, 2000; Miller et. al., 2007; Pauli et. al., 2006; Roemer and Forrest, 1996; Webb et. al., 2006	These studies are not relevant to an ecological risk assessment of listed species.
