I once told you I had already sent them to you once, and you went and found the info (in a brown paper bag under your desk?).

You are doing it to me again. Are you sure you sent these? I have difficulty remembering what I had for lunch two days ago. But I distinctly remembering you telling me the capacity were in some required filings so I went looking for the filings.

Have you looked for the couple of emails I sent you with the unit

capacity factors?

Load Factor

Allan,

I have been unable through an Internet search to find Merrimack Station's Load Factor; i.e., the percentage of the time the Station operates. Could you supply those numbers.

Thanks, John
