

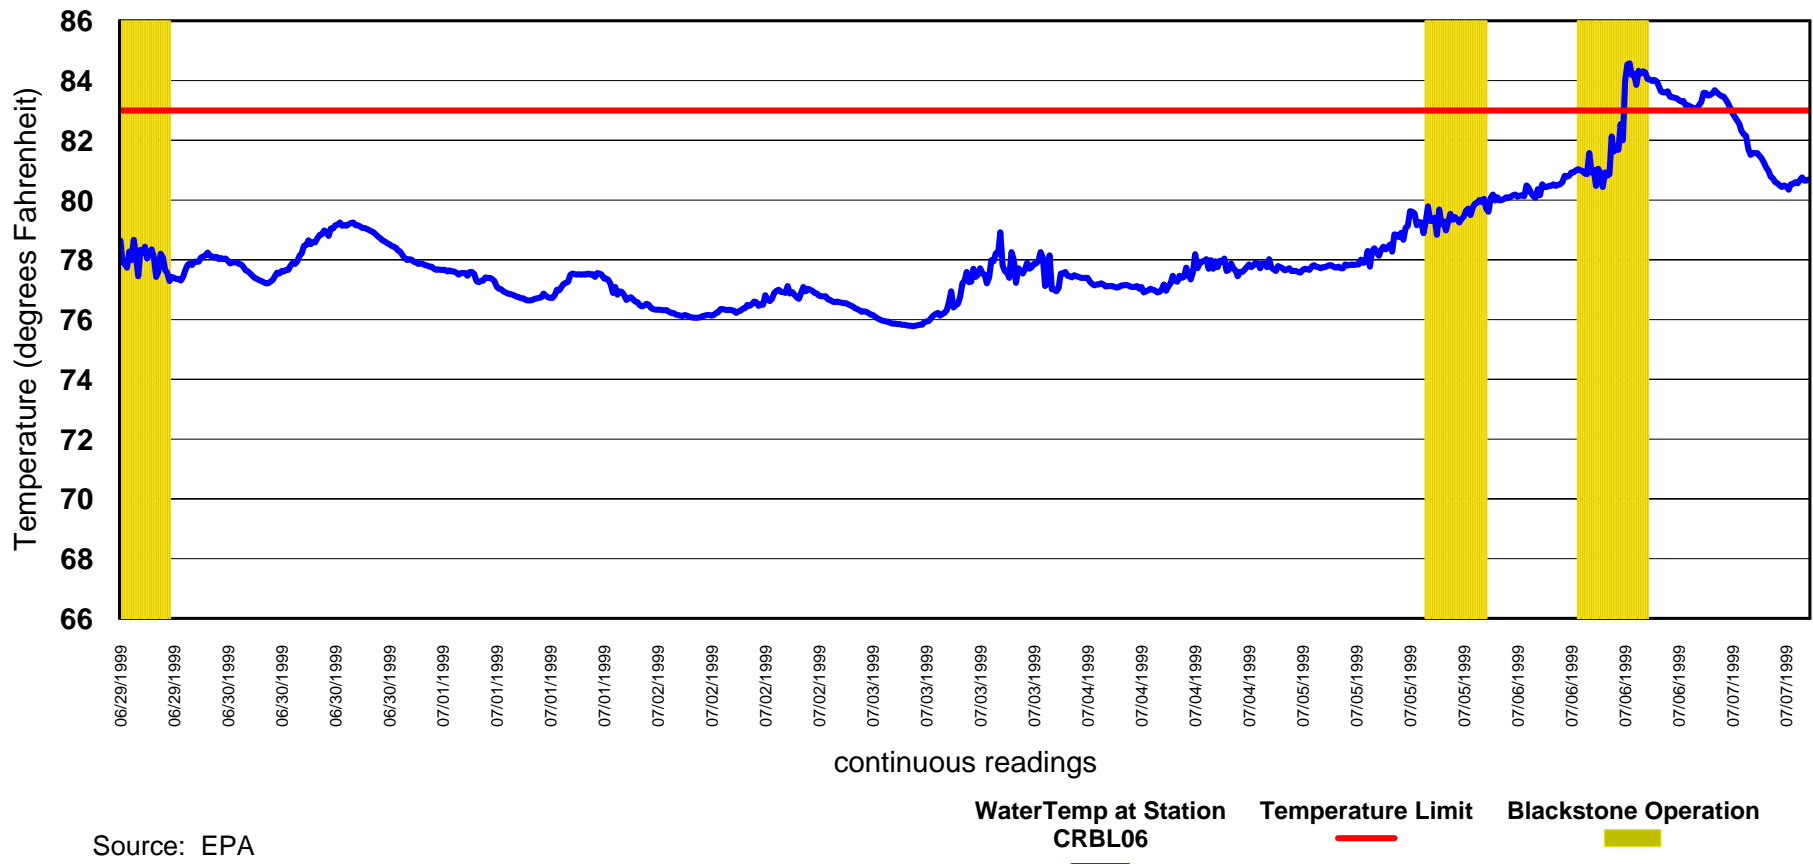

Figure 5.9.2-33 Charles River ambient river temperatures, recorded continuously at a depth of 0.75 meters, in the vicinity of the Boston University Bridge (background monitoring station), compared with the established temperature limit for the Zone of Passage and Habitat. The time periods when Blackstone Station discharged heated effluent to the river are also identified in the figure (June 29 - July 7, 1999).

Source: EPA