Greetings once again:

In September 2011, we provided a notice that the 10th Conference on Air Quality Models (10th Modeling Conference) was being rescheduled to March 13-15, 2012 and would still be held at the EPA Campus in RTP, NC. This rescheduling was intended to provide additional preparation time for the entire dispersion modeling community in advance of the 10th Modeling Conference.

On January 31, 2012, a Federal Register Notice was published with specific details of the upcoming 10th Modeling Conference. A copy of this Federal Register Notice can be found at the following link on the EPA SCRAM website: <http://www.epa.gov/ttn/scram/10thmodconf/EPA-HQ-OAR-2012-0056-0001.pdf>.

An informational web page has also been posted on the EPA SCRAM web site that includes additional information on attending and/or participating at the 10th Modeling Conference. A draft agenda is currently under final revision through the assistance of an internal/external Technical Modeling Workgroup and will be available on this informational web page before mid-February. The link to this informational web page is: <http://www.epa.gov/ttn/scram/10thmodconf.htm>.

We look forward to our continued constructive interactions prior to, during, and following the 10th Modeling Conference.

Sincerely,

Richard A. "Chet" Wayland
